Westerdale M.D. Annual Meeting

The annual meeting of Westerdale municipality which was held at the Westerdale Community Hall was one of the best attended meetings in the history of the district.

Reeve George Clarke was elected chairman of the meeting.

The financial statement was read and adopted. The council were congratulated on the improved standing of the district and the reeve stated that much of the improvement was due to the good response that ratepayers had made in the payment of arrears of taxes.

In discussing the question of roads it was the unanimous expression of the council that the purchase of the elevator-grader during the past year was a step in the right direction. It was pointed out that 17 miles of good road had been built during the year, and hope was expressed that at least a similar amount would be graded during 1934.

Nominations were called for Divisions 1, 2 and 3 and the following were nominated:

Div. 1: Lawrence Chandler and Norman Clarke.

Div. 2: W. F. Brown, C. D. Carver and Arthur Jackson.

Div. 3: Alex Hogg and Jno. Rindahl.

The polling will take place on Saturday next, Div. 1 at Springside School; Div. 2 at Melvin School; and Div. 3 at John Manson's residence.

Advocate New Curling Rink.

A number of enthusiastic curlers are advocating the building of a new curling rink for next winter. The old rink is getting into a more or less dilapidated condition, and some think that the time has come to build a four-sheet rink. They also claim that with the present price of lumber and labor the rink could be built cheaper now than in the future.

We understand that it is the intention to call a meeting to discuss this problem within the next few days.

New Church Union Plan Considered

Conferences between representatives of the United Church of Canada and the Evangelical Church of Canada are being held looking to the ultimate merging of the two denominations, it was learned Wednesday.

Negotiations so far have been mainly in the nature of informal discussions from time to time between leaders of the two bodies. An official of the Evangelical church informed the Canadian Press, and as far as that church is concerned the matter has yet to be considered by the full committee on union, and finally the whole matter, before any definite decision is arrived at.

Mountain View M.D. Annual Meeting

About 200 ratepayers were present at the annual meeting of the Mountain View Municipal District which was held at the Olds Agricultural School on Saturday last. Mr. Thomas G. Whitehair was elected chairman of the meeting.

The financial statement was read by Secretary Brusso and showed that the district was in a much improved financial position. A number of questions were asked regarding the statement and all were apparently satisfactorily answered.

The cash balance which on account of the successful collection of arrears of tax during the year had increased to almost $15,000.00 was discussed, and a motion was introduced, "That the cash balance on hand be used for current purposes and the mill rate reduced accordingly."

The reeve said that a substantial cash balance at the beginning of the year was to the advantage of the district inasmuch as a considerable saving in interest could be made during the year's operations. He also expressed an opinion that it was quite possible that a reduction in mill rate would be made.

The motion was defeated.

The question of weeds along the roads came in for much discussion and the councillors were asked to take care of the weeds and grass along the roads in an effort to prevent snow drifts.

Mr. W. H. A. Thomas moved and Mr. B. C. Trimble seconded "This annual meeting of ratepayers approve of the action of the council in reducing councillors' fees and allowances for road work as requested at the annual meeting 1933, and express a hope that they will continue this measure of economy." The motion was carried unanimously.

Mr. F. S. Grisdale, M.L.A. addressed the meeting at the close of business. He expressed satisfaction in the splendid financial position of the municipality and stated that there were very few municipalities in the province that could show such an excellent statement.

He stated that the rural municipalities in Alberta compared very favorably with those in other provinces. They were almost free from bonded indebtedness, there being only $15,000.00 of bond outstanding. The current indebtedness of the municipalities had also been greatly reduced. From eight million dollars in 1931 it had been reduced to five millions in 1932 and it was estimated that it had been reduced another two millions in 1933. He estimated that there would be several amendments made in the Town Council.

The organization meeting of the town council was held Monday evening, when the reelected councillors were sworn in.

The following committees were appointed for the year:

Finance: Mayor Chambers and Councillor Keith.

Public Works: Councillors Gauder and C. E. Reiber.

Police, Licenses & Relief: Councillors Reiber and Spence.

Sanitation: Councillors Pitt and Fleury.

Fire & Property: Councillors Keith and Fleury.

Library Board: Mrs. H. Hawkes, Mayor Chambers and Messrs. C. R. Ford and W. A. Austin.

Board of Health: Messrs. C. H. Ashhead, A. C. Fisher and W. Pitt.

Councillor Spence was appointed deputy mayor for the first three months and Mr. A. Brusso was appointed auditor.

"Curlers' Sunday."

The annual "Curlers' Service" will be held in the Knox United Church on Sunday next, Feb. 25th at 7:30. The Westcott Male Quartette will sing. The service will be conducted by the Club Chaplain, and his sermon subject will be "Recreation."

Compliments the Boys Band

After hearing the Didsbury Boys Band at Olds, Mr. A. C. Bury of Olds complimented the boys on their playing. But he said the playing of the band was unimportant compared with opportunity that is being given the boys to occupy their time with something worthwhile instead of roaming the streets to find amusement. He said Didsbury was fortunate in having a director and others who were enough interested in the boys to make this possible.

Municipal Act during this session of the legislature. He also discussed trade conditions.

Nominations were called for Divisions Nos. 4, 5 and six, and the following were nominated:

Division 4, John A. Dodd and Espar Esparou.

Division 5, C. B. Jensen, B. C. Trimble and Thos. G. Whitehair.

Division 6, W. E. Flinn and Adolph Kuelin.

The first named in each division is the returning councillor.

The election will take place next Saturday.

National Peace Study Project To Bring To People Of Canada Vital Facts Regarding Peace

A national peace study project to bring to every man and woman in Canada the importance of peace, was announced by J. E. MacPherson, president of the Association of Canadian clubs, and Hon. Ernest Lapointe, president of the League of Nations society.

In "A letter to all Canadians" the details of the society's project were announced. For the first time in Canadian history, it was stated, an attempt was to be made through the combined use of the radio, the press and group discussion of have a simultaneous study of a subject throughout the nation.

What is described as Sir Arthur Currie's last great message was used by Mr. MacPherson and Mr. Lapointe to emphasize the importance of their plan, and his question whether Canadians were hating themselves "in this night of hysteria which may end in war" was reiterated.

Eleven Sunday afternoon addresses have been arranged to introduce the various topics listed in the discussion and study outline. The addresses, which will be broadcast, follow:

Jan. 21. Rt. Hon. Sir Robert Borden and Hon. Mr. Lapointe on Canadian responsibilities.

Jan. 28. Col. George A. Dyer, president of the Toronto branch of the League of Nations Society in Canada, on "Why Should Canadians Be Interested in World Peace?"

Feb. 4. Dr. R. C. Wallace, president of the University of Alberta, on "How Is Peace To Be Maintained By Force or Coercion?"

Feb. 11. Dr. H. F. Munro, superintendent of education for Nova Scotia and former delegate to the Assembly of the League of Nations, on "What Does Partnership in the Collective System Involve for Canada?"

Feb. 18. Hon. Irene Fairbairn, member of the Alberta government and former delegate to the assembly of the League of Nations, on "What Might Happen to Canada If The Collective System Were Abandoned?"

Feb. 25. Mrs. H. P. Plamette, member of the Toronto board of education and former delegate to the assembly of the League of Nations, on "Present Obstacles to Peace."

March 4. John W. Duff, editor-in-chief of the Winnipeg Free Press, on "Why Did the Collective System Fail in Manchuria?"

March 11. Hon. R. J. Manion, minister of railways and canals and delegate to the last assembly of the League of Nations, on "Disarmament."

March 18. J. M. MacDonnell, president-elect of the Toronto board of trade, on "How Can We Work For Peace in Canada?"

March 25. Prof. T. W. L. MacDermid, national secretary of the League of Nations society in Canada, on "How Can Canada Work For Peace in the World?"

April 1. Hon. Mr. Lapointe and Hon. Mr. Currie, president and vice-president of the League of Nations Society in Canada, in a summary and review.

Should Study Politics

All Those Who Have Interests Of Country At Heart Should Give Subject Attention

Politics linked up as it is with the ruling and progress of a people should not be considered degrading but beneath the notice of respectable persons. Hon. Ernest Lapointe, recent minister of justice, told the Women's Canadian club at Quebec.

Stressing that people should not shirk politics due to a dislike for this or that politician, Mr. Lapointe argued that after all the basic nature of politics was human nature with all its qualities and imperfections.

All those who had the interests of their country at heart, he emphasized, should study politics.

For Benefit Of Ireland

Money Left To De Valera Will Constitute Trust Fund

Eamon de Valera, president of the Irish Free State, was the winning party in an action concerning the will of Miss Polly Fitzpatrick, a Brighton woman, 72 years old, who was found dead at her home in July, 1932.

Miss Fitzpatrick left a will part of which read: "I give and bequeath to Mr. de Valera my house and all my furniture and effects." The value of the estate is a little more than $15,000.

The will was contested by John Fitzpatrick, of Dublin, who claimed his sister was of weak intellect, childish and eccentric that in late years she had become a recluse, and that she died in a neglected condition, having refused to have medical treatment. When Miss Fitzpatrick died, said counsel for De Valera, she had no relatives with whom she had been in touch for 30 years. She had said that her property would go to Ireland when she died. She also expressed a trust for public purposes of the kind which Miss Fitzpatrick was known to approve," said counsel.

Had Fairly Good Luck

One Crop Failure In Eighteen Years Record Of Homeowner

W. L. Clark, in Federal Cities, Star says: "The ramifications of the poor crop in Western Canada extend to unexpected quarters. For instance, we met a man in Los Angeles who homesteaded a farm near Saskatoon many years ago. He wanted the land, improved the view that the only man who had done any good for Ireland was Mr. De Valera.

"It is not Mr. De Valera's intention to profit by a penny piece from this estate. His intention is that the money shall be used by him as a trust for public purposes of the kind which Miss Fitzpatrick was known to approve," said counsel.

Eighteen years ago he rented the farm on a crop sharing basis. Shortly after that he moved out to California for his health. When he left the prairie he continued to rent his farm on a share understanding. And every year during the fourteen years he has been in Los Angeles, he has got some return until this year.

He is missing the crop money this winter. Last summer grasshoppers, drought and other things visited his land. The crop was a complete failure. Only once before has such a thing happened. That year he was haled out, but he and insurance collected."

Got Their Man

The Royal Canadian Mounted Police took six years but they finally located Israel Statkoff in Philadelphia and took him to Montreal to face a charge of narcotic drug possession. He pleaded guilty. In 1927, Statkoff jumped bail in an amount of $11,500 which was forfeited to the crown.

Stamp Collection Is Missing

Detectives Probe Disappearance Of Stamps at St. John's, Newfoundland

Swinging from an extensive investigation into widespread stamp forgery, government detectives are delving into the mysterious disappearance of stamps valued at more than $20,000 from the St. John's post office and the Newfoundland museum building.

The operations were tight-lipped as they traced down stencils cut out from the department of justice, an intimation the search might turn toward postal officials.

Difficulty had been met, an official statement said, in getting information from postal employees because of a fear of becoming conspicuous in any investigation, especially if it implicates his superiors. The government has been collecting for almost a half century.

Part of the vast collection consisting of stamps from almost every nation were stored in the museum building, closed since 1930. These were stored in albums, as were part of those stored in the post office. Others, received since 1928, were in bundles in the post office.

Baling Sheep Pelts

Valuable Information Regarding Proper Method For Shipping

When sheep pelts have to be shipped a long distance to market, they should be carefully spread out, then packed, paying close attention to see that all wrinkles or folds are carefully straightened out in the head, side and leg pieces. Salt about a pound and a half to a pelt—should then be evenly sprinkled over the pelt, which is left spread out for a few days until the salt melts and soaks in. It can then be hung up to dry. Drying may be hastened if the pelts are stretched by tacking to a wall or fence in a manner similar to the practice in handling the pelts of fur-bearing animals. When the sheep pelts are thoroughly dry they may be shipped in safety by placing one on top of the other, and baled in lots of 75 to 25 according to size and weight. HAMILTON GIVES BANQUET FOR CHILDREN IN LONDON

For several years a banquet has been held in the Guildhall, London, England, at which the City of Hamilton, Ontario, has been host to some 1,200 children of the British Empire. One picture, taken at the forty-first banquet, shows the Lord Mayor of London (seated right), among the children, while the girl pupils of Dagenham primary school sit at the banquet table.

An announcement comes from Winnipeg that the provincial governments will be asked to support an arctic national park for the protection of game resources in the Far North.

The proposal comes from Dr. A. D. Baykov, bacteriologist, expert, biological board of Canada. He suggests it as the first step toward saving Arctic species from extinction. He would transplant and propagate the musk-ox, which is one of the natural food supplies of the natives.

Dr. Baykov believes that the ideal park would be a strip of land astride the Churchill river near the airport. He claims that the preservation of the musk-ox is not only necessary, but urgent. He says that they have been swept out of Alaska and Greenland, but they are almost extinct in the Manitoba portion of their range.

Apart from the educational and animal conservation considerations in the proposed park, there is another thought. It is that interest in Canada and the United States is moving northward.

A number of indirectly related forces have been working over a period of years, and suddenly joined from different points, to strive for a national park at Churchill.

Those which created contrasting factors included mining promoters in Great Bear driving game ahead of them, Eskimos moving south in search of food; government experts finding animals decreasing in numbers; an authority of the biological board of Canada, hoping for action; curiosity seekers looking for entertainment; promoters interested in meat packing plants for semi-domesticated game, hopelessly looking northward.

It does not require a wild stretch of the imagination to vision a semi-wilderness park at Churchill, where in a few years thousands of musk-ox may be slaughtered to provide epicurean tables with novelty morsels.

As early as 1880, David T. Harebury, efficient northern traveller, set out from Winnipeg to explore the "Thelon river, and all of the present game preserve. He noted that there was a stretch of country 80 miles in length, where no human entered.

This natural sanctuary was farther west than the coastal Eskimo hunted. It was further east than the Yellow Knife Indians and the Dog River country. It was apparently beyond the northern limits of the Chipewyan bands.

In 1900 J. W. Tyrrell, D.L.S. noted Canadian explorer, "covered the ground and recommended Thelon as a game preserve."

In view of these and other explorations and the fact that Thelon is not in a mineralized zone, the government established the sanctuary by order in council on July 15, 1927.

History In Dots And Dashes

Big Events Chronicled When Telegraph Was First Used

Big events and big names in history were chronicled in the days when the telegraph was a new means of communication, according to P. R. Davey, writing in the Canadian National Railways Magazine. He traces the funeral of the Duke of Wellington, the arrival of Napoleon III, and the Empress Eugenie on their way to visit to London, the opening of the first Red Cross hospital for Florence Nightingale in the Crimea, the laying of the cable by the Great Eastern, and the opening of the first train system in London. When the first Christmas telegram was sent between Toronto and Montreal in 1847, Mr. Davey points out, there were less than 700 miles of line in use. In that year, the pioneer Montreal Telegraph Company was one of the Canadian National Railway's subsidiaries. Today it has 25,000 miles of line, and more than 20,000 miles of telegraph and cable, carrying 100,000,000 messages a year, and 2,000,000 telegrams a day.

Saving Money on Seed

What would you think of a farmer who each spring bought high priced breeding stock, and each fall sold his entire herd at market prices, not even retaining the best females for breeding purposes? He would have to be pretty well off to be able to afford it, would he not? But this is just parallel to what is being done annually on thousands of farms in this Province. Every year seed grain is purchased at a relatively high price, and the entire crop grown from this seed is sold for a mere song -- or conversely, in many cases inferior seed is sown year after year, with even more disastrous financial results.

Many far-sighted farmers have discovered that neither of these methods follows very closely the path of progress, and have resorted to an alternative. This is to secure a small amount of good foundation seed, sow it on clean summerfallow, and use the grain secured from this crop for the next spring's seed. If an eye is kept on the seed plot and any weeds which may appear are methodically pulled, there is no reason why the man engaged in mixed farming should harvest almost as good a yield of seed as his nearest neighbor, who is a seed grower, and the following spring, he will discover that it is very pleasant not to have to dig into his pocket for money to buy seed, at a time when the price of grain is usually at its peak.

A good plan is to sow a seed plot every spring for each variety of grain to be grown the following year. Barring casualties, these plots should produce sufficient grain to seed down fields many times their own size; and then, there is a real pride of achievement in producing a good crop from seed of one's own growing.

Every year a large number of seed plots are grown at the Dominion Experimental Station, Lacombe, and the grain from these plots, such as registered or certified seed -- the highest grades of foundation seed. A visit during the summer to the Experimental Station at Lacombe, to see how these seed plots are handled, would be well worth while for anyone interested in growing his own seed; and for anyone wishing to avoid having to purchase seed in the spring of 1935 it would be extremely profitable to this spring secure from a seed grower a small amount of foundation seed to sow on clean summerfallow and increase for a seed supply for next year.

"More Practical" By Lew Wigglesworth.

The armchair poet racks his brain to get the proper slant. While boasting for the simple life. Oh my! How does he rant, Or frisky lambkins blithe and gay. And milkmaids flirting on their way. And that old gag re new-mown by. Quite old you'll hear him chant. With eulogizing birds and flowers his pen will sometimes warm. But never a word the world has heard 'bout chore-time on the farm.

You mushy, sentimental runt; come here and take a peck. At what takes place on any farm just fourteen times a week. And then I ween, in language terse. You'll flay your one-time style of verse. And say "Good night" or something worse.

In accents not so meek. Right well I knew that you'll agree 'twon't do a bit of harm. To change your tune, a song to croon of chore-time on the farm.

'Tis seven p.m. The cows are in-- the farmer grabs a pail; His husky partner follows suit. (No milkmaid sweet and frail). From nineteen cows the milk they strip; So close the air, with sweat they drip; Take from this boy a quiet tip-- It's pleasant in jail.

The kiddies turn and separate - Oh, life with all its charm. Not half the time is set to rhyme with chore-time on the farm.

"Oh Muvver! Muvver, help me quick! We hear a youngster roar, Whose pants have buttoned on a mud and lugged him to a door.

Clear out of here, you pesky brat.

The Old Man's getting sore, With malediction fouls the air; but don't you take alarm - That sort of play comes on each day at chore-time on the farm.

Those playful lambs we read about; they sure are raising Cain; Right through that old board fence they've gone into the field of grain. The calves are thirsty I can tell; Wee-wee, oink! - the pigs are mad as-well.

They must be fed to stop their yell.

Let's we become insane. The chickens! hurry, bring them in, for look, here comes a storm! But goodness me! things lively be at chore-time on the farm.

Sing not to me of city ways; of splendor, pomp and frills, Give me the country every time - that's where you get your thrills.

Society with all its bunk Appends to me like so much junk;

But life is full of pep and spunk Out here among the hills; Where men are men, as sayings go; and brown and strong of arm,

And things move fast from first to last, at chore-time on the farm.

Lone Pine W.I. met in the Hall on Wednesday afternoon last with a large attendance of members and visitors. Roll call was answered by "The first thing I remember," which brought forth many amusing stories. An exchange of valentines took place, and many original ideas were shown. The next meeting will be held in the hall on March 8th, when Mrs. Woods will take the topic, and a darning competition will be held, with prizes for the best and worst piece of work.

Mrs. A. Thompson Sr. and sons, and Mr. V. Thorpe visited Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. J. Clark.

Several of this district attended "Nominating Day" in Olds last Saturday.

Messrs. Ioris and Dennis Jenkins of Didsbury, spent the week-end at their home here.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Schneider of Torrington, spent Friday with their daughter Mrs. Chris Elrod.

Mr. Ralph Long visited with Mr. and Mrs. Thompson over the week-end.

The hall was crowded on Friday evening last, when the Lone Pine W.I. put on their annual Valentine Concert and Dance. A splendid programme was given and was much enjoyed by all present. After lunch dancing took place to the music provided by a Didsbury orchestra consisting of Miss Evelyn Liesmer, Messrs. Art Beiler and Howard Hildray. The proceeds will go to pay Provincial dues and flowers for the sick beside the necessary expenses.

WEEKLY SERMONETTE

"If you have occasion to criticize a mule, do it to his face."

WEEKLY JOKE

A peevish looking individual was seated in a cafe when a man entered, leaving the door wide open. Instantly the peevish man became violently agitated.

"Shut that door, you clump," he loudly exclaimed, "where were you raised, in a barn?"

The other quietly closed the door and then, taking a seat at a nearby table, he buried his head in his hands and began to sob. Naturally this touched the heart of the peevish one.

"My friend," said he, going over to the sobbing man, "I didn't mean to hurt your feelings, I merely wanted you to close the door." "I was not crying because you hurt my feelings," was the sobbing rejoinder, "as you suggested, I was raised in a barn, and every time I hear a mule Bray I get homesick."

YOU will be MORE THAN SATISFIED by having your Watch, Clock, Phonograph, or Sewing Machine fixed right in Didsbury. All my work is guaranteed. Reasonable prices.

Marvels of the Human Eye

By F. M. CROWE, Optometrist-Optician, Calgary

NO. 6—ASTIGMATISM

We now come to a very common defect of the eye, one little understood by the public many of whom consider it a simple inflammatory condition or disease or that it is a temporary ailment, which it is not.

The simplest explanation of Astigmatism would be to describe it as an eyeball in which one of both refractive surfaces (Lens and Cornea) are not symmetrically curved. Try and visualize a perfectly round ball of glass from which you cut a slice. Now the Cornea of the eye should be equally curved in all meridians as that slice of glass and when it is not, the condition is known as Astigmatism. It is usually congenital but may be acquired by a blow or result from a sore after it has healed. It is also considered probable that many cases of Astigmatism have resulted from undue pressure on the eyeball in infancy by the parent washing the child's eyes, also by the children rubbing their eyes in the horizontal direction in their "crying" years as it is usually in the horizontal direction that Astigmatism exists. An unsymmetrical and not uniformly curved Lens is usually due to the muscles forcing it to assume a shape which will see most clearly the side effect of neutralize the unbalanced Curves in the interests of good vision.

We now see that rays of light from any object to be seen clearly and comfortably must focus in the Retina and to do so must pass through symmetrically curved surfaces which you see is impossible where Astigmatism exists because the focus is blurred and indicated as a sharp point. The poor vision which would result from Astigmatism of moderate amount is often overcome by the action of the Lens. The third motor nerve sends power to the Ciliary muscles which control the action of the Lens and the Lens is forced into an unbalanced shape in the effort to obtain a clear brain image. But imagine, if you can, the excessive amount of nerve energy used up by such eyes for six sixteen months only, your attention is to it may wonder such people eventually become blind under the strain.

Some symptoms of Astigmatism are: blurred vision, fatigue, headache, loss of "pop," blurring of the head, eye, or better known, indigestion, constipation and even St. Vitus Dance. Different individuals are differently affected. The symptoms are due to an individual depend upon the age, temperament, physique and occupation. Strange as it may seem the discomfort experienced as a result of Astigmatism is not at all in proportion to the amount of error. In fact it usually bears the reverse ratio as we find the better the vision, the greater the eye strain. When a small amount of error exists, it is estimated that normal eyes are about thirty-five per cent of the nerve energy of a normal body. How much is used by eyes that are abnormal? Could a body remain healthy under such circumstances? You answer.

We have no more reason to expect the eyes to be perfect than the features or any other organ. Neither are they so and few eyes are without some degree of Astigmatism. A small amount can be tolerated by many without discomfort especially in outdoor occupations, but the present age of excessive close work, sitting, reading for pleasure, strong electric light, moving pictures and "talkies" from almost everything we look at all tend to manifest the defect in the human eye. It is doubtful if it is foretold that the eyes will be better or worse than those of this generation but they lived differently, eye difficulty, noticed earlier, had plenty of soothing and restful activities to meet their gaze instead of the reflections from city pavements and house and street signs, close work, etc. What artificial light they used was cool oil or gas, not electric light which is charged with heat harmful to the eyes.

Am I advocating a return to the old condition of things? By no means. I am merely pointing out that "eye-consciousness" and many ailments result from, yet due to eye conditions, a part of the price we are paying for advancing civilization.

It has taken quite a time for me to tell you the worst. Now comes much to our aid in the form of instruments which, in the hands of a skillful optician, neutralize the amount and kind of Astigmatism and other eye defects also machinery for grinding special lenses which when worn entirely neutralizes the effects of the abnormal conditions with resultant normal vision and normal amount of nerve energy used for the eyes leaving the other organs with their proper share. The unpleasant eye and vision symptoms, close work is now efficient and life is enjoyed instead of tolerated.

SYNOPSIS

Camilla Hoyt and Peter Anson, young and in love, marry secretly, deciding to live their own lives apart until Peter is able to provide for her. Peter is a young, struggling sculptor trying to win a competition for a scholarship abroad and Camilla is the adopted daughter of a wealthy family. She is not to inherit money until she comes of age and so is studying commercial art in the hope of landing an agency job. Others in the story are Avis Worth, another wealthy girl who is trying to win Peter, Sylvia Todd, Peter's model, and Gus Matson, his former roommate with whom he has quarrelled. At a party at an exclusive club Peter entertains Camilla's guests with impersonations. When the rest of the members of the party go to a cabaret to continue the party, Peter and Camilla slip off to the beach by themselves and fall asleep on the sand. When they awake it is early morning and Avis and another boy are standing near them. This makes it necessary for Camilla to announce before the party that she and Peter are married. Avis is stunned and Camilla's mother likewise.

CHAPTER XXVII

Camilla's unshaken faith in Peter and her quiet resignation to any opinion or ultimatum, had mollified Mrs. Hoyt, somewhat. She did not disown her as a daughter or command her to leave the Hoyt household, but Camilla decided for herself that it would be the wiser course. She consulted with Rose about renting a small apartment at once.

"I have enough to live on for a few weeks, and I'll surely find work soon," she explained. She had met Rose downtown for the lunch hour and they were facing each other across a little onyx-topped table in a tearoom, when she told Rose about her marriage to Peter.

"So you're married!" Rose had reproached her. "That's no way to go into business—or marriage, either. You don't know what you are or what you want. Gee! kid, if I had your chance to be somebody talented like you've got and a swell education—I wouldn't look at a man."

"As soon as I get work, Rose, I'll help you to go to night school for that secretarial course," Camilla promised generously.

"That's what I want, all right. And you won't see me hitching up to drag a truck after me, just when I get in form, either. Single harness for me and a light, fancy load behind that is mostly myself."

"You will forget all those resolutions if you ever fall in love, Rose," Camilla smiled kindly, with her own wisdom.

Rose waved the suggestion aside with a flourish of her hand. "I don't believe in that kind of love anymore. I mean I believe there's a Santa Claus. Peter, why do you want to live with me, now? Why don't you go and live with your husband, now that the secret is out?"

"Whether or not it's a secret, has nothing to do with that, Peter and I agreed to live apart until he is able to take care of me. That may be for a long time yet."

"That's goofy. I'll say. Why wouldn't it be better for you to shuffle your incomes and go fifty-fifty? Plenty of couples do that and manage to get along."

"And plenty of them don't. No, Rose, when a girl gives her best to her work for a salary and tries to keep house, she has to let down on one of them. Naturally, it's the house-keeping. As a wife, she fails; or at least, house becomes so unpleasant that the man and woman go to thinking it is each other they hate. No, until Peter can take care of me, what he sees of me will be by night. We shall only be together for pleasure, just as if we were lovers. That way, we always shall be lovers, and our happiness will be saved for the future."

"Oh, I see," laughed Rose, "you prefer being an occasional wife to something like those occasional chairs and tables they advertise to have around the house for extra use. They're there, ready to be used whenever they're needed. Handy that way, all right."

For an instant, Camilla resented her sister's comparison, then she laughed, also. "That it that way if you wish I'll add to the metaphor. The occasional chair is not used so much as the old armchair and it stays newer looking and is treated with more respect. It is the guest chair. That is what I shall be to Peter—his guest-wife."

"Well, it's all right to be a guest and sit in a bright new occasional chair for an evening, but you sure do like to get home again and slouch down in the old armchair that knows every creck and turn of your disposition, even if it is worn to threads on the arms where yours have rested when you're tired."

Camilla was delighted with Rose's sudden burst of drap philosophy. How wise she was, in spite of her limited education and training. She would make a shrewd business woman without a doubt, and Camilla decided that she would sacrifice if necessary, to assure her more training for the position of which she was capable.

"Peter isn't going to be much concerned with comfy armchairs or wicker, either, for awhile," she continued. "Right now, he is so busy that he scarcely knows he has a wife. And that's what I'll have to do to get work. I'll have to try harder, and perhaps just take any kind of work to get started. Happen to know of anything at all I could do?"

Not a thing. If I weren't the only kid clerk at Devere's, I'd be afraid of my own job. Wherever two people are working at the same time, there's a possibility of elimination these days. You should be glad you have it easy, and forget about hunting for a job that some other girl needs."

"There's nothing fair about that idea. Anyone who has enough ambition and ability to work, has a right to. And I want to leave the Hoyts right away. I want to start being independent, and I promise not to be a burden to you. Can't we look for a place on Saturday? Rents are lower now, and I've been noticing the food prices. It won't cost you any more than living at home and you've been wanting to leave. Ed and Henry can take care of the rest all right, and you know Ma told you to do as you wished."

"Oh, sure, I do want to get away, and live more like you do, Camilla. I was only thinking about you. I'm afraid you won't like it, after being used to having everything so grand."

"You just imagine it's grand, honey. You wouldn't think so if you could trade places."

"Well, I wish I could for awhile that's all. I wouldn't be looking for trouble as you do. All right, then, I'll be seeing you on Saturday. If you have time, you might look around. If you see anything you like, I'll be okay with me. You know as well as I do what we can afford you with nothing and me with eighteen a week, she shrugged.

Peter looked up from his work to discover Gus Matson standing in the doorway, grinning broadly. "Oh, hello!" he exclaimed. "Come in."

Gus sauntered into the room. "Quite a surprise to see me?"

"Yeah. Where have you been all summer?"

"Oh, around. Didn't think you wanted to see me," he dropped into a chair and glanced up surreptitiously.

"That's all right," Peter dismissed the past. "Sorry you made a fool of yourself."

"I don't follow a right to make love to a girl if she wants to."

"Sure. But that's not what I mean, and you know it."

"Oh, well, all's fair in love and war."

"That was neither," Peter interrupted him sternly.

"Oh, yeah? Gonna start bossing me again?"

"I should say not. I wouldn't consider the job again. Is that what you came here for, to offer me a chance to be your guardian again?"

"No—and yes. Fact is, I'm up against it, and I wondered if you could help me a little, Peter, you always were a good scout. I have some work promised after next month, but I gotta eat until then."

"While you finish your piece for the exhibit? It's the same with you."

"Yeah? Who said I was working for the exhibit?"

"Aren't you?" surprised.

"No. Are you?"

"Why, yes, thought you did the same model."

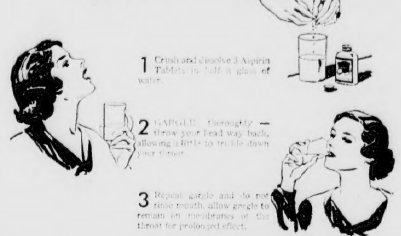

"Say, d'you suppose I'm crazy enough to think I have a chance to win anything you enter?"

"I don't know, my not. Besides, it brings your work to the attention of the right people. That's the reason I'm entering. I'd like to win, of course, but I don't expect to."

Now! Ease Sore Throat Instantly!

Remember: Only Medicine Helps Sore Throat

Modern medical science now throws an entirely new light on sore throat. A way that eases the pain, removes inflammation, and is as little as five or three tablets.

It requires medicine—like ASPIRIN—to do these things! That is why throat specialists throughout the world are prescribing this ASPIRIN in place of old-time ways.

Be careful, however, that you get Aspirin Tablets for this purpose.

Aspirin is the trademark of The Bayer Company, Limited, and the name Bayer in the form of a cross is on each tablet. They dissolve completely enough to gargle while not leaving irritating particles.

Unusual Situation in China

Women Gain Prominence And Are Crowding Men Out

Women, from singing-songs to university professors, are so much in the news in China that they are crowding the men out of the picture. The Chinese, long accustomed to keeping their women behind the orchid door, now find them very much in the open. At dinner parties, balls, theatricals sports events and all public and social functions Chinese women are very much in evidence.

General Han Fu-chu, Governor of Shantung, who is a militant of the old school, is a convert. On a recent visit to Peking he complained bitterly because officials here spent so much time in the company of women. But on his last inspection tour of his own province he was accompanied by two women propagandists. In all the cities and towns he visited he turned the women loose to tell their sisters to bob their hair and quit binding their feet.

The increasing prominence of women in the news has revived the ancient Chinese legend of a land inhabited entirely by women. Research indicates that the land referred to in the fable was meant to be the Kurile Islands. The curm has it that in the old days the Kuriles were inhabited by fisher-women who knew nothing about men.

A Few Sips—A Few Cents—Coughs, Colds Gone

BUCKLEY'S MIXTURE is not a cheap preparation, but it takes so little of it so completely banishes a cough or cold that it costs less than any other preparation.

Buckley's is so marvellously good that it does not stop your cough or cold entirely. Instead, it keeps your throat and deeper passages moist. Take Buckley's. It makes safe, sure, instant relief from cough, cold, croup or hoarseness. It fits into a glass—single sip proves it's a real cure.

New Type Of Kitchen

One Feature Is Cupboard That Becomes Dining Table

The American furniture industry opened its 20th annual show in Chicago with everything from bird cages to washing machines on display in the spacious Furniture Mart on La Salle Street.

Bayers will find the 1931 kitchen a distinct innovation. Besides the stove, cupboard and other appointments this kitchen has a "planning desk" wherein the housewife becomes the home executive.

Another novelty is the five-foot cupboard that becomes a dining room table without even disturbing the dishes on the shelves.

Whittling and the expected the show to make a record in the industry.

Little Helps For This Week

I pray not that Thou shouldst take them out of the still retreat, but that Thou shouldst keep them from the evil.—John 17:15.

In busy mart and crowded street, No less than in the still retreat, Thou wilt not rest our souls to bliss. With all a Father's tender love.

Only the individual conscience, as he who is greater than the conscience, can tell where worldliness prevails. Each heart must answer for itself, and at its own risk. That our souls are committed to our own keeping, at our own peril in a world so mixed as this, is the last reason we should slumber over the charge or betray the trust. If only that outlet to the Infinite is kept open, the inner and with eternal life present, while not one movement of this world's business is interfered with nor one beat of its happiness repressed, with all natural associations dear and cherished, with all human sympathies dear and warm, we shall yet be near the kingdom of heaven. In the world, but not of it, not taken out of it but kept from its evil.—J. H. Trapp.
